CULTURE NIGHT AT CASTLETYMON LIBRARY

FRI 20TH SEPTEMBER, 5.45-6.45PM

The Start of Storytelling: A Talk with Storyteller

Patrick Ryan

Every culture, every society has stories and storytelling. But when did storytelling start? When were stories created? It seems that people have had stories and told stories from the point humans first developed language. The earliest cave paintings are images that narrate events, and the most ancient writing, of Mesopotamia, Egypt and related tales.

This event is a combination of storytelling and a talk for adults who are interested in telling stories, creating stories, remembering stories, constructing stories, writing stories, tinkering with stories, mapping stories, and taking in stories.

Book from Tues 2nd Sep @ 10am at the library desk or on castletymonlibrary.eventbrite.ie.
